ORTALE'S HOOCH WAS UNDER FLOOR

Very Little Real Whiskey, Says Chemist, in First Ulster County Trial For Violating Prohibition Law.

The first action for violation of the state liquor law to be tried in Ulster county was taken up for trial Thursday afternoon in county court when District Attorney Traver on the part of the People took up the Robert Ortale case. Ortale, who is also known as Sharkey, kept a cafe in Rondout at the corner of Mill and Chambers streets.

From the testimony introduced by the People it appears that one John Henry Bassett, colored, on the night of August 25, 1921, went to the Ortale place and asked for "whiskey." Ortale placed a bottle on the table and some liquid was served him. The action is brought under subdivision 2, section 1212 of the penal law for the possession of liquor without a proper permit, and is not brought for the sale of liquor.

John Henry Bassett is a resident of Chambers street and said that he had resided there since returning from the war. He testified that he had been a frequent visitor to the Ortale place. When asked when the last visit was, he said that he had been there last winter. Bassett has been a career which leads to the county jail and is well known in police circles.

Been Sick Ever Since.

John Henry Bassett was the first witness sworn by the People and testified that on the evening of August 25, 1921, he had gone to the Ortale place and asked for whiskey. Ortale served him with something which was supposed to have been whiskey by the witness. After drinking one he ordered another and then a fourth. After the fourth had been safely put away, Bassett said he felt sick, he was drunk but could still talk. He paid for the drinks and then went outside and finally up to the city hall where he told Sergeant Phinney that he had been served with whiskey in the Ortale place. Bassett thought that he saw Officer Sabloff and that he had been taken to the city hall by the officer. However Phinney on the stand said that Bassett came alone into the city hall.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brinnier, Sr. Bassett said that he had become sick after drinking the whiskey and had been sick for four days. Later he changed his testimony and said that he had not been sick the first day but was sick the second day, the first day he was drunk. He also said that after drinking the four whiskeys which had tasted bad he had fallen down.

Questioned by Mr. Brinnier as to whether he had told a police officer that the officer was drunk, John Henry said that he had not. He said he, Bassett, was drunk.

"That Was No Whiskey."

Questioned by District Attorney Traver as to his opinion of the liquid, if it were whiskey, Bassett said:

"That was no whiskey. It was something which lays you out in a box. I've been sick ever since."

Bassett Complained to Police.

Sergeant Phinney, who was on duty at the city hall on the night of August 25, 1921, testified that Bassett came to the city hall and said that he had bought whiskey at Ortale's place on Mill street. Bassett at the time was intoxicated.

Sergeant Hanley, who with Chief Wood, Patrolman Simpson and Patrolman Soper made a search of the premises next day was the next witness called. He testified that armed with a search warrant for the premises they visited the premises the next afternoon about 5 o'clock for the purpose of searching for liquor.

Officer Soper was left on guard outside the place while Chief Wood, Sergeant Hanley and Officer Simpson entered the place, where after serving the warrant they proceeded to search the barroom and adjoining rooms.

Liquid Found in Hall.

Opening of the barroom was a hall leading to the stairs which led up-stairs and also down in the cellar. Near the steps Sergeant Hanley found a jug which contained something which he thought was wine. A fruit jar which also contained a liquid which resembled wine was seized.

Ortale Led the Way.

While he was examining the hall-way and cellarway, Ortale started up-stairs and Sergeant Hanley immediately followed him up the stairs. The officer stopped in one of the rooms and Ortale went into an adjoining room which appeared to be a bedroom over the barroom. While Hanley was examining the outer-way he heard something gurgling in the next room where Ortale was and immediately went in and found Ortale at a window emptying the contents of a bottle on the window sill. The blinds were closed and the liquid was trickling over the sill and down the front of the building. Hanley seized the bottle but it was practically empty.

Officer Soper, who was stationed outside the house, saw the liquid trickle down the side of the build-

Any team wishing to challenge East Kingston should communicate with William McNally, East Kingston, N. Y.

P. T. A. School No. 5.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of School No. 5 will hold their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the school rooms at 2 o'clock instead of 3:30 o'clock. Following the business session with election of officers the association will visit the Earth plant, Mr. Reben, a member of the assembly to inspect the plant. The organization, having invited ing and came in and notified Chief Wood, who was down stairs, and he in turn warned Hanley. However, Hanley had already seized the bottle. The bottle bears a "Golden Wedding" whiskey label.

Liquid Found Under Floor.

When Chief Wood came upstairs, a search was started to locate liquor there, nothing having been found behind the bar on the first floor. When the floor covering was removed, Chief Wood found a stove pipe hole and when he reached the hole he found a loose board between the floor timbers. He was unable to reach anything and called Sergeant Hanley, who felt in the hole and just reached a neck of a large bottle. He drew it out and found that a string had been attached to the bottle but he had not found the string in time to use it in pulling the bottle out.

Before the bottle had been found, Ortale informed Sergeant Hanley that there was nothing between the floors.

The bottles and other containers were sealed on the premises and a receipt given and the seized liquids were taken to the city hall, where the bottle of liquor found between the floor was turned over that night to Arthur Kapowich, chemist, who tested the liquid for alcohol.

Chief Wood testified that this was the second time that the Ortale place had been visited. On the first occasion he had not been present. He with the other police officers entered the place on August 26, 1921, and found several people in the place. Ortale and a woman by the name of Blanchard were in a small booth drinking an amber colored liquid when the chief entered. Chief Wood testified that he examined the bar room and found nothing. Ortale started up-stairs and Hanley followed. Officer Soper came in and told him that someone was pouring whiskey out of the window and the chief went up-stairs.

When he arrived up-stairs, Hanley had seized the bottle from Ortale and Ortale told them that there was "nothing much in it, anyway."

Then a thorough search was made and the bottle was revealed in the stove-pipe hole.

Officer Soper told of the liquid running from the window and of his notifying the chief. He testified that it smelled like whiskey.

John Henry Bassett was recalled by William D. Brinnier, Jr., attorney for defendant, and an attempt was made to show that Bassett had been indicted for assault. This was ruled out by Judge Fowler who ruled that only convictions of a crime could be shown. Bassett had been convicted of assault.

Officer Simpson was called next and testified that he had gone into the place but had remained in the bar-room.

"Hooch" Was 82.5 "Proof."

Arthur Kapowich, chemist at the Nitro Powder works at Mingo Hollow, the chemist who made the examination of the seized liquid, was next called and said that he had tested the liquid from the large bottle which had been described as the one found under the floor and that he had found it contained 41.25 per cent alcohol by volume. This would make it 82.5 proof.

Not Whiskey, It Is Hooch.

Kapowich testified that he has examined a number of liquids brought to him for analysis and that there was very little real whiskey ever brought to him for examination, it is mostly "hooch," once in a great while he finds real whiskey.

The contents of the bottle seized at the Ortale place contained grain alcohol and was classified by the chemist as just "hooch."

With the completion of the examination of the chemist The People rested and an adjournment was taken until this morning at 10 o'clock. At that time the defence was taken up.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES CAMPAIGN BEGINS SUNDAY

The campaign for funds with which to conduct the varied charities throughout the archdiocese of New York commences on Sunday evening and continues throughout the week.

A bulletin unfolding the full report of the distributions to the charities was distributed on Sunday last. In view of this it is hoped that a very generous response will be made this year to sustain these enterprises. Not only is it the wish of the archbishop that great generosity be shown but that as well every man, woman and child in the diocese be enlisted as a contributing member.

No quota has been set and no amount has been determined upon as sufficient but unbounded generosity is asked to enable these enterprises to be forwarded in the high scale that has been set.

The captains and workers of St. Mary's congregation will meet this evening in the school hall to secure equipment with which to conduct the campaign. The attendance of every single worker is requested.

The evening's program was well rendered and the performers each in turn were highly applauded. Those taking part were the Zion Quartet, Mrs. S. Snyder of St. Mark's A. M. E. Church, Mrs. Quinn and W. Eny, Charles DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. G. West, Sylvester Van Dorze, Jr., the Misses Louise and Mabel Fitzgerald and Jennett Van Dyke. MUSICAL THIEF PREFERS SCHOOLS

There is a thief with musical tastes loose in Ulster county at the present time, and he appears to have decided leanings toward village schools. So far two thefts of talking machines and records from village schools have been reported to the sheriff's office.

The first theft was at the Whiteport school where the musical thief pried open a window and removed the talking machine and twenty-five records owned by the school. Henry Fagher, the school trustee, has offered a reward leading to the conviction of the thief.

The other theft was at the school in the town of Esopus, just south of Port Ewen, where the Columbia machine and a number of records were stolen. Entrance to the school was similar to that at the Whiteport school. Since this theft occurred the local police department recovered the machine and records and returned them to the school.

HARDING HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Sudden Change in Plans Prevented Him from Occupying Cabin Beneath Boat Deck Which Collapsed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cincinnati, O., April 28.—Captain George W. Dameron, of the United States Inspection service, began an investigation this morning of a report that the collapse of the third deck of the Island Queen while the steamer was carrying 2,500 passengers to the Grant Centennial celebration at Point Pleasant yesterday, was due to the supports of the deck being tampered with and weakened by some unknown individual.

Captain Edward Patterson, steamer commander, said that he believed the supports which collapsed, had been made insecure by some person who gained access to them within the last week. The accident resulted in probable fatal injuries to Wilbur Morgan, member of the boys' band, of Manchester, Ohio, who was caught beneath the wreckage and slight injuries to about 44 city officials and selected guests. The boy was reported dying at a local hospital this morning.

The Island Queen was inspected and pronounced safe by Captain John K. Peyton of the United States Inspection service on April 21.

Captain Dameron refused to comment on the fact that at the eleventh hour, plans had been changed so that President Harding, who was scheduled to make the trip to Point Pleasant aboard the Island Queen, went up the river on the Cayuga, a government boat. The cabin which had been reserved for the president on the Island Queen, was directly under the deck which collapsed.

According to Mr. Geary, the bottle was purchased from a stranger whom he met on Abel street some time before. The bottle had been in the hiding place for about two weeks before he missed it. He had never told Ortale that he had liquor. He also remembered Bassett being in Ortale's place on the night before the visit by the police but Bassett had received no drinks and was "if soured" when he came to the place.

Wants Whiskey Back.

When asked if he owned the whiskey and if he wanted it back, Geary said he wanted it back. The bottle was his he said, "I got it back, I want it as I take it for medicine and I want it." Geary said he also knew Ortale as Reuben Sharkey.

The bottle had been purchased some time in June before the raid and had been hidden since its purchase. According to Geary he was coming along Abel street one night about 5 o'clock when a stranger met him and inquired the way to Rosendale. Geary told him and then the stranger offered to sell the liquor and after a free sample Geary purchased the bottle for $10 and took it home.

On the day of the visit to the place by the police Geary was on the sidewalk but did not see the police carry away the bottle for if he had seen them with the bottle, he said, he would have claimed it.

However he never made a demand on the police for the liquor.

He said that the other bottle which was in the room was not his and he did not know what was in it or to whom it belonged.

Was Not Subpoenaed.

Geary said he had not been served with a subpoena but had been told the case was coming on and that he could come up and claim the bottle, which he owned.

He said he had never talked the case over with Ortale except to say that he owned the bottle and that he wanted it back. He said he had also talked to Mr. Brinnier in his office about getting the bottle back.

Chief Wood was called in rebuttal and said that Ortale was not in the room when the bottle was taken from between the floor, he having left a moment before when the hole in the floor was uncovered. The Chief also testified that Ortale said nothing about vinegar in the jug but had said that it was wine and further said, "What are you going to leave a fellow here without a drink?" and asked the police officers not to take the stuff.

The case was continued this afternoon and submitted to the jury late today.

ORTALE PRODUCES "MEDICINE" MAN

Maurice Geary Swears He Owned Bottle Seized by Police—Wants it Back for Medicinal Purposes.

Robert Ortale when called to the witness stand this morning testified that he did not know there was any liquor in the room above his bar-room on August 26, 1921, when the police searched the premises at the corner of Mill and Chambers street.

When shown the bottle of alleged whiskey he said he never saw it before and did not own it but that a man by the name of Maurice who had occupied the room for two or three weeks had later told him that the bottle belonged to him. Maurice was not there when the raid was made but later told him that the bottle belonged to him.

Ortale further stated that when he entered the room which was occupied by Maurice he saw a bottle standing on the mantelpiece and not knowing what was in it he was not going to take any chances so emptied the contents out of the window. He said that the jar and jug which were produced in evidence belonged to him and that they contained vinegar.

He denied that he had ever sold Bassett any whiskey but testified that Bassett had come to his place the night before the raid and asked for a drink but that he told him he had nothing and ordered Bassett out of the place. Bassett, he said, was drunk, and Ortale told him to go back where he had procured the other liquor.

Ortale said that he had rented the room where the bottle was found to an old man whose name he did not know other than Maurice, it was Maurice Geary who resides on Pierpoint street, and he received $2 a week rent. After the raid Maurice left. Ortale did not remember Mrs. Blanchard being in the place at the time of the raid, as testified to by the police. Ortale could not remember being convicted of carrying

STUDENTS HONOR GENERAL GRANT

Large Attendance at Grant Memorial Exercises at High School—Interesting Addresses and Patriotic Program.

The Grant Memorial Exercises held at the Kingston high school auditorium on Thursday afternoon proved to be of much interest and very profitable. The guests of honor at these exercises, given for the most part by the high school students, were the members of Pratt Post, G. A. R., members of Tappan Camp, Sons of Veterans, the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans and members of Kingston Post, American Legion and other World War veterans. Seated on the platform were Major "Al" Tanner, Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael, the Rev. Gregory Mabry, senior chaplain of the 77th Division and Principal Lewis, who acted as master of ceremonies.

After the singing of America, the High School orchestra playing and the entire audience singing, Superintendent Michael extended the welcome to the veterans of American wars from the Civil War veterans. In addressing the veterans Mr. Michael paid them high tribute, and spoke to and of them as those who knew by bitter experience, hardship and grief, the war history of America that the others in the audience of high school students and friends knew only by reading. Superintendent Michael also spoke feelingly of the one member of the Grand Army of the Republic who always attended such occasions with loyal fervor but who had passed out of the world's line of veterans, Major Vallette, and he paid deserved and appreciated tribute to the comrade in arms who had been for so many years conspicuous for his patriotism and close adherence to duty and the public trust that was his. In reiterating his welcome to the veterans, Superintendent Michael also promised them, in behalf of the younger Americans filling the auditorium, a like devotion to country should the need ever arise.

Solomon Hoadney then gave excellently a brief but comprehensive sketch of General Grant's life, the man whose flag-draped picture held the place of honor on the platform. The next number on the program was a recitation, "On the Rappahannock," given admirably by Anne Byrne, with musical accompaniment by Miss Reynolds.

The Rev. Father Mabry, chaplain of the American Legion, was then introduced and gave a stirring and timely address. Father Mabry said it seemed strange that he should be on the platform on such an occasion, since he was born within the sound of the guns of Fort Sumter, and would have been called a "Johnny Rebel," a son of the enemy. He said, however, he was a living example of the fact that the war between the north and south was over. The healing of the wounds of that war was an accomplished fact today. The speaker said it was not easy to say that one's father was in the wrong, but he was going to say that, though he fought, thinking himself in the right, his own father was in the wrong and the men before him were in the right.

Peace is dearest of all to those who have fought, said Father Mabry, for to them war is not glory, but filth and dirt and untold hardship and suffering and deprivation, perhaps death. Yet he was tremendously in favor of all the peace that human nature could stand, and for always, provided it was a right peace. But sometimes peace needs defending.

Because America had been able to heal her own wounds following the Civil War, Father Mabry believed she was the country best able to go about healing the wounds of the world war, and at the same time he again gave warning of the necessity of watchful defense of peace, calling attention to the apprehended alliance between Russia, Germany and Japan, and from which Great Britain alone can keep Japan.

He, too, promised the men who had fought in other wars, that the men of tomorrow would be ready at all times to defend and protect and support peace and America.

Father Mabry's address, which was enthusiastically applauded, was preceded by the orchestral playing and the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Two other recitations were given that were most excellent, "Lee's Surrender at Appomattox," by Adolph Stumpf, and "McKinley's Appreciation of Grant," by Harold Proper.

Grant and the Civil War, as given by Edwin Davis, and "Grant President," an oration by Farinacci Corregan showed other angles of the heroic life of U. S. Grant. Both received deserved applause. It will be noted that practically all phases of the life of General Grant, whom the country honored especially on Thursday, were presented in the recitations of the high school students.

The program closed with the orchestral playing and singing of "Star Spangled Banner."

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How do shrikes kill their prey?
2. Why do some oaks have acorns on them all winter, while others do not?
3. Are the young of pronghorn antelope spotted? I have lived around these animals for 15 years, but now I want some information, can't find it in books available.

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Are bats dangerous? Not in the least in North America, but exceedingly beneficial, particularly as mosquito catchers. The notion that bats are "vampires" or blood-suckers is probably based on the fact that certain South American species do bite the toes of sleeping persons. The bite is not fatal, however.
2. Why do corn kernels come in even numbers in rows? The "ears" of corn are the plant's seed vessels, matured from flowers, borne on the very short stalks that make the end of the cob, grow in pairs. Why they come in pairs we don't know—various plants have their blossoms grouped in pairs. When these blossoms are fertilized by pollen dropped from the staminate flowers, or tassels, seed begins to form, each pair of blossoms developing into a pair of seeds. This makes an even number of rows.

3. Please tell me what sort of place the cardinal uses for a nest. One has been about my grounds all winter, and I want to keep it if I can.

By choice the cardinal nests in deep thickets, making a nest of roots, weed-stalks, inner fibres of bark for lining, etc. If you have any dense shrubbery, or thick tangles of vine, it may perhaps use them. You might try hanging up some grapevine bark fibres and place them in spots where you often see the bird, as a suggestion. Orioles sometimes are encouraged to build in a given spot about.

Crime to Destroy Good Book.
 As good almost to kill a man as kill a good book; who kills a man kills a reasonable creature, God's image; but he who destroys a good book kills reason itself.—John Milton.

A WISE POLICY.

As there is no religious instruction in American public schools, the non-Christian tribes of the Philippines would seem to have little cause for fear that their children will be alienated from the Mohammedan faith by attending the public schools in the islands, but they are protesting vigorously, and Governor-General Wood has advised the provisional officials as follows:

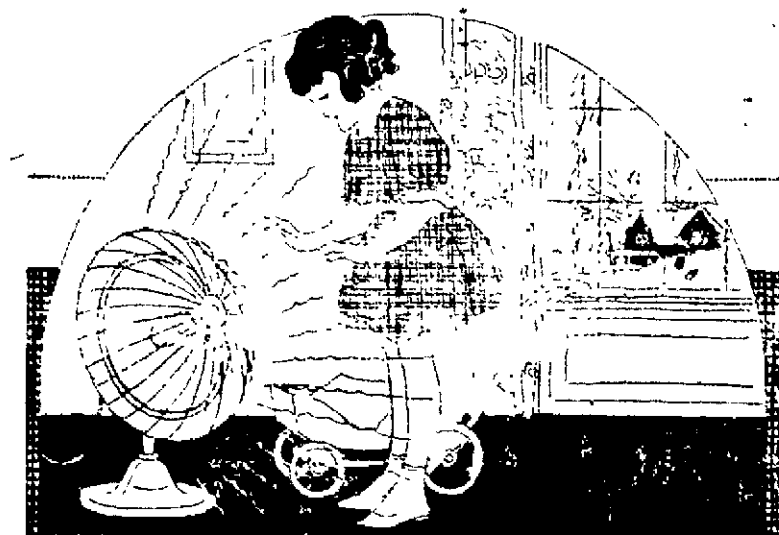

The question of policy as to the enforcement of the compulsory education law in the special provinces of Mindanao and Sulu has been brought to my attention and decision requested. In my opinion the use of force and strict or lawless enforcement of the law is not desirable. In all cases of backward tribes a certain discretion must be allowed the responsible official on the ground, in order that: (1) The law and the reasons therefor may be understood and appreciated by the people and their own leaders according to their custom. (2) When understood, the difficulties which attend a too violent change of local customs and traditions may be avoided by a gradual application of the law. It must be borne in mind that the preservation of order is of vital importance and that the inconsiderate enforcement of this law may lead to serious consequences.

Under this policy very few Mohammedan children are likely to be seen in the public schools for a long time to come. Nevertheless General Wood's advice is wise and commendable. The religious prejudices of the Mohammedans in Mindanao and Sulu must be respected. The maintenance of this time-honored American principle is more important than rapid progress of public school work in those islands.

JOFFRE—FIVE YEARS AFTER.

Marshal Joffre, after traveling round the world, is again in the United States on a short tour, and has been received with due respect and appreciation at the White House. "My country," he said to President Harding, "does not forget her noble allies of the great war, nor the entire American army, which under the immediate direction of its own commanding officers so greatly contributed to the victory over the enemy of right and peace." Of course the president gave assurance that this country would never forget Joffre, though as to this the battle-scarred old veteran may have had his doubts at moments, as he noted the striking contrast between the popular acclaim of 1917 and the comparative lack of interest in 1922.

When Joffre came five years ago, to urge the sending of American troops at the earliest possible moment to support the Allies on the Western front, the country rose to him with an enthusiasm that brought pure joy to his heart as well as the stimulus of bright hope to his weary mind. But now he finds a people not only "tired of the war" and disillusioned by one anti-climax after another, but con-

EX-PRESIDENT DESCHANEL DEAD

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, April 28.—Paul Deschanel, former president of France, died today.

The immediate cause of death, according to physicians, was pneumonia. M. Deschanel was twice president of the chamber of deputies before becoming president of France in 1920. He served only a short term, resigning because of illness. An attack caused him to fall from a train on one occasion and he accosted a pedestrian on a country road, announcing to the man's amazement that he was president of France.

"Yes, I'm Napoleon," the man said, only to discover later that the stranger was in fact the president.

Deschanel has been seriously ill for several days. He had never recovered from the illness which caused his resignation.

$30,000,000 JUMP CAUSED BY "TIP"?

Senator LaFollette Claims Advance Tip to Speculators Caused Sinclair Oil's Rapid Rise.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 28.—An advance "tip" given speculators on the New York Exchange that the government had leased the Wyoming Oil reserve to a private company, caused trading in the company's stock to jump to more than $30,000,000 in three days, while official information was withheld from the newspapers and by the public by Secretaries Fall and Denby. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, charged in the senate today.

President Harding and his administration were denounced by LaFollette as having "repeatedly and reversed" the policy of protecting the naval oil reserve, which he declared former Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson had maintained "over an unbroken period of more than a decade."

A thorough investigation by the senate public lands committee of the Sinclair Oil deal and of all the circumstances surrounding the leasing of the naval oil reserves in California and Wyoming to private interests, was proposed by a resolution offered by LaFollette.

While LaFollette was denouncing the Sinclair Oil deal in the senate, it was understood in administration circles that the White House had sent to the interior department for all available papers and data regarding the Sinclair Oil deal.

Some administration senators admitted having been "tipped off" at the White House that the president was not "entirely satisfied" with the way the Sinclair deal was engineered by Secretary Fall.

SUPERVISORS IN SPECIAL SESSION

County Legislature Apportion Highway Money, Ammend Towns—Approves Bonding Acts And Transacts Other Business.

The board of supervisors met in special session on Thursday evening and 12 members answered the roll call. Chairman John D. Fratcher presided. The business transacted was the introduction of three county acts, two for bonding by towns, and one for machinery, and one to amend an act of 1920 so that the time for paying bonds for Wawarsing bridge repairs be extended. The board also passed resolutions appropriating state and county highway money to towns that are on the map for road improvement adopted April 20, 1921, in accordance with the Lowman law. The acts introduced were given first and second reading before the committee of the whole and then approved without amendment. They were ordered for third reading and recommended for passage and went over for twenty-four hours.

Sawkill Road Improvement.
Among the appropriations recommended for highway purposes was $12,745.30 for the town of Ulster which is for the improvement of the Sawkill road, being that portion extending in Ulster.

There was also introduced $5,000 for Road No. 11 in the town of Ulster. The towns to get the money appropriated must raise 41 per cent. of the amount appropriated and expend 75 per cent. of that on actual work before the county superintendent of highways can certify to the county treasurer to pay over any of the money appropriated. The towns must also have necessary road equipment so that satisfactory work can be built.

The Bonding Acts.

Loughran later gave a talk to the supervisors on the highway improvement matter and County Attorney John W. The Big City Four, the headline Keith offering at the Opera House for the last half of the week set a new mark for delightful slinging at the opening yesterday. A new photoplay will be presented Saturday with Johnny Walker and Edna Murphy in "Extra Extra." Johnny Walker will be remembered as the star in "Over the Hill."

Jack Hovie in a new western story of action and thrills "Hills of Hate" is showing at the Auditorium tonight also the wild animal chapter play "Miracles of the Jungle." Saturday Frank Mayo in "The Man Who Married His Own Wife."

TURN HANDS OF CLOCKS AHEAD

Saturday evening before retiring for bed Kingston residents should not forget to turn the hands of the clocks ahead just one hour, or when they awake Sunday morning they will find themselves an hour behind the rest of the neighbors. Daylight saving goes into effect at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but it is inconvenient, to say the least, to roll out of bed at that hour, to attend to the clock. In practically all of the cities in the Hudson river valley the daylight saving schedule goes in effect Sunday.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PERCY PORCUPINE

"I have a stronger tail than Willie Woodchuck," said Percy Porcupine, "and altogether I am a stronger animal. I have a nice blunt nose and I'm a good climber, too."

"What has a blunt nose to do with being a good climber?" asked Peter Porcupine.

"Nothing much," said Percy. "I only mention both those facts in case any one is interested. I am certainly a sensible animal."

"I would be very foolish, indeed, if I didn't wear my suit of quills."

"I wouldn't be able to protect myself at all. When creatures see my quills they are frightened and that is a good thing. I must frighten creatures or they might hurt me. When they see my quills sticking out they think I am a fearful looking animal. Ah, it is well to be protected."

"I am so glad that in the Porcupine world it is the fashion to wear quills. I don't know what I'd do if another fashion should come in."

"Just suppose a fashion came in of wearing silk or muslin or something equally foolish! That would be dreadful!"

"Of course it would be," said Peter Porcupine. "but you needn't worry about that, for no such fashion will come in."

"No porcupine would be foolish enough to take up such a fashion if it did start, and what is more, no porcupine would be so foolish as to start such a fashion."

"If the fashion came in with other animals it wouldn't make any difference to us. And we wouldn't have to pay any attention to it. If a porcupine should start such a fashion it might be different."

"But, as I said before, no porcupine will do such a thing. We don't change our styles all the time. In fact we don't change at all."

"That is where the Porcupine family is so sensible. When we're suited,

"Fearful Looking Animal."

we're suited. We don't get our suits from the shops and then say after we have them home:

"Oh dear, now I wish I'd ordered that blue and green suit which was hanging next to this one."

"We never say anything like that! In the first place there are no porcupine shops and in the second place we'd never go to them if there were."

"We have too much sense for that, and we're pleased with the suits we have always worn. Why change when one is satisfied?"

"There is no sense in doing such a thing and so we don't."

"Very sensible of us," said Percy Porcupine. "Oh, I love these woods up here where people so seldom come. I don't mind people and I wouldn't hurt them, but I like to be away where it is quiet."

"I would never do for a city life. Dear me, no. Even a small town wouldn't suit me. Do you suppose I'd care to talk about the streets and wade my tail as a dog would do when he met his friends? Not much. I wouldn't do that. I would be very unpopular in a town or a city and I wouldn't be happy there at all."

"Now, a dog is quite different. They are sociable. But when they try to make friends with us we don't make friends with them."

"Perhaps I shouldn't say they try to make friends with us, for they don't. They want to chase us and we make them nervous and upset and they can't keep away from us. And then we stick our quills into them when they come near us."

"Yes, dogs had better keep away from us if they don't want to be hurt."

"We're all right by ourselves in the quiet woods where few people ever come. We don't like the woods near places where people are."

"We're quite satisfied with our own ways. That's because we're porcupines."

Cato's Three Laments.
Plutarch says that Cato declared that in his whole life he most repented of three things: one was that he had trusted a secret to a woman; another, that he went by water when he might have gone by land; the third, that he had remained one whole day without eating any business of importance.

AMERICAN WOMAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

Hale's Fiction Character Rivalled
by Plight of Nancy Leishman.

LOST HER PERSONAL FORTUNE

War's Tangle Has Caused European Nations to Disown Duke and Wife, Who Gave Up United States Citizenship—French Courts Deny Right to French Citizenship and to Ownership of Magnificent Estate in Northern France.

The recent decision of the French courts denying the right to French citizenship and to ownership of a magnificent estate in northern France makes the duchess of Oroy, the former Miss Nancy Leishman and one of the most notable of the rich and beautiful American heiresses who have become the wives of foreign noblemen, a woman without a country, according to the Milwaukee Journal.

Her plight is singularly like that of the character of Edward Everett Hale's story, "The Man Without a Country." But the former Nancy Leishman is even worse off than this character of fiction.

Besides declaring that it does not want her or her husband or any of his brothers as citizens, the French government condemns her to poverty through its refusal to surrender the valuable estate which it seized shortly after the war began.

The difficulties in which the former Miss Leishman finds herself are due to the fact that the family into which she married is one that has branches in several European countries—France, Germany, Belgium, Hungary and Spain. It has the blood of at least five nations flowing in its veins as a result of generations of intermarrying.

In the German Army.

When the war broke out the duchess's husband, Charles Rudolphe of Oroy, and his two brothers were living in Germany. They entered the German army. This led the French government to regard them as alien enemies. The duke of Oroy and his fellow princes declared they had been forced to enter the German army under penalty of death, and insisted they had always been loyal to France. But suits to establish their claims have failed.

The duchess lost her American citizenship when she was married to a foreigner. France has declared that it wants nothing of her and Germany will doubtless be equally unwilling to accept her as a citizen since her husband and his brothers have declared their loyalty to France and sworn that they fought under the German flag against their will.

But depriving her of any country she can call her own is only part of the cruel blow which the recent decision of French courts has dealt this American heiress. The great estate which France refuses to surrender to the mongrel Oroy family is one on whose rehabilitation the duchess has spent a large share of her personal fortune.

The duchess is the daughter of John G. Leishman, a Pittsburgh millionaire, who served first as minister to Switzerland and later as ambassador to Turkey, Italy and Germany. While he was representing the United States in Germany and his daughter was living with him in Berlin she fell in love with the dashing young duke.

Influential members of the duke's family were bitterly opposed to his marrying outside the circles of royalty, and so was the kaiser. But the duke was too deeply in love. He took matters into his own hands by resigning from the army and showed his scorn for the kaiser's opposition by absconding himself from all the functions of the court season and going to join Miss Leishman and her family at their winter home in Switzerland.

The Marriage in Geneva

The duke was eager for an immediate wedding, but the bitter opposition of his family made this impossible. He was obliged to wait until he attained his full majority and came into possession of his large family estates in Westphalia. This happened on his twenty-fourth birthday, and on that very day he and Miss Leishman were married in Geneva.

The duke felt sure that once he had made Nancy Leishman his bride the opposition to his marriage would fade away and its validity be recognized, but in this he was sadly disappointed. He was given to understand that in Germany and Austria, at any rate, his wife had no right to the title of duchess, and that any sons she might have would be debarred from inheriting any of their father's honors, titles and entailed property.

Because the validity of their marriage was not admitted, she was denied presentation at the court of Berlin and at all other monarchical courts in Germany. She also was refused the honor of being presented at the courts of Belgium, Austria and Hungary.

Cuticura Soap is the favorite for safety and economy.

FREE to Men

A 10-Shave
Tube

At Your Own Store

A few years ago we decided to make a Shaving Cream and to have it embody—like our famous toilet soap—a blend of palm and olive oils.

Our first step was to ask a thousand men the qualities they wanted in it. And these were their requirements:

- 1—A Quick Shave
- 2—Liberal Lather
- 3—Lasting Lather
- 4—Soothing Effects

They wanted results complete and abundant, without hot towels, finger rubbing or delay.

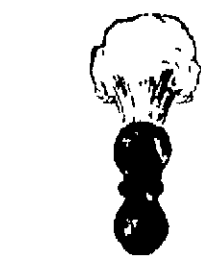

We Studied 18 Months

We are experts in soap making. Palmolive Soap—our creation—is the leading toilet soap of the world. But it took us 18 months to perfect this ideal shaving cream. We made up and tested 130 separate formulas. Thus, step by step we developed for you the best shaving cream in existence.

It embodies those four requirements—in a matchless way—as we picture at the side.

Now we ask you to test it. Let a ten-shave test show you how it excels. It will lead you to a lifetime of delightful shaves.

Present the coupon to any store listed below and he will give you a trial tube.

Multiplies itself 250 times

The soap multiplies itself in lather 250 times. A tiny bit—just one-half gram—suffices for a shave. There are 152 shaves in a 35-cent tube.

Maintains itself 10 minutes

The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face. It does not dry quickly. It does not need replacing.

Acts in one minute

Within one minute the beard absorbs 15 per cent of water. And that makes a stiff beard wax-like. No hot towels, no finger rubbing necessary.

*Soothing
after effects*

The palm and olive oil blend makes the soap a lotion. It leaves the skin soft and velvety. It allays all irritation.

OBSERVE BIRTH OF GEN. GRANT

Memorial to Be Unveiled in Capital to Great Leader.

CANNON TALKS OF WAR HERO

Centennial Celebration of Birth of Gen. U. S. Grant Leads "Uncle Joe" to Tell of Personal Recollections of "Silent Soldier"—Had No Sense of the Dramatic, No Enthusiasm or Passion, and No Hysterical Development of Any Kind.

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of General Grant will be celebrated on April 27. The recognition of this event will get in Washington at the foot of the capital on the west side, work on which was commenced years ago.

To the great majority of Americans Grant is merely what they have learned and read of him from the printed page. The men alive today who knew Grant when he was at the forefront of those making American history are few. Prominent among this dwindling number is "Uncle Joe" Cannon, oldest member of the house of representatives in years and in point of service. Mr. Cannon's first-hand recollections of General Grant are as fresh as if he had parted from the famous soldier but a week ago.

Grant forced recognition of his ability as a military genius, according to Mr. Cannon. There was nothing flashy, nothing dramatic in General Grant. It is a deplorable fact, but true, that brother officers in the Union armies did their utmost to give credit for victories and military feats to others, often to themselves, when success actually was due to the ability and brains of Grant.

"In April, 1861, this man presided at a union meeting in a small Illinois town, unknown even to a majority of his neighbors," Mr. Cannon points out. "In April, 1865, he presided at that famous union meeting at Appomattox, when armed resistance to the union ended. He had not come to this success and distinction through political favoritism or favorable publicity, unless we accept General Bragg's opinion on Grover Cleveland. 'We love him for the enemies he has made.'"

What Mr. Cannon calls the "political generals" and the "literary generals" all opposed Grant, and envied him. But in spite of their criticism and abuse he compelled recognition of his military ability until Lincoln, before he had ever seen Grant, made the recently unknown soldier commander of all the northern forces.

Grant Had No Enthusiasm. "General Grant was a perfectly normal man," says the Illinois political veteran. "He had neither enthusiasm nor passion, and no hysterical development of any kind. He had no sense of the dramatic and failed to do those things which instantly appeal to the public eye. He was so calm under all circumstances that he seems to have communicated some of his unexcitable nature to those about him, even to the horse he rode. Who ever heard of Grant on a prancing, rearing war horse? Why, even the artists who are ever looking for the dramatic and picturesque have always pictured Grant sitting quietly on a horse standing on four feet, as quietly as though just unhitched from the plow."

Mr. Cannon recalled that at Vicksburg General Grant sent Logan to take formal possession of the city when Pemberton surrendered. On the historic occasion at Appomattox General Grant refused to appear otherwise than he usually did and wore his ordinary service uniform. Grant saw no dramatic climax in this occasion. As soon as it was over he hurried back to Washington to arrange for disbanding the armies under his command, and sending the soldiers to their homes.

"This same indifference to dramatic demonstrations and situations followed him through life," Mr. Cannon recalls. "I recollect in reading in the papers of his trip around the world, how he met the crowned heads, statesmen, and plain people with the same simple manner. He surprised the Germans by walking from his hotel to the palace to call on Prince Bismarck, and the prince, we are told, met him at a door, instead of waiting to receive him in state. He met the queen of England, the czar of Russia, the emperor of Japan, and the king of Spain, in the same way, conforming to the etiquette of the courts, but for himself never dropping the role of the plain American gentleman. He might have appeared in the courts of Europe and Asia wearing the four stars of a general, worn rightly by no man from Washington's time to his day, but he refused to appear in the uniform which gave him greatest distinction in the eyes of the world."

Target of Many Critics. Hordes of critics leveled their shafts at Grant from the time of his advent on the national stage until his death, on Mount McGregor. Mr. Cannon says these critics could see nothing good in Grant—no military ability, no patriotic devotion, no moral courage in the soldier while his battles were in progress, but was forced to join in the praise heaped on him when his victories were won.

General Grant refused to have the surrender of Appomattox commemorated in a historic painting representing him as receiving the sword of Lee, as General Gates is represented in the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga, in the monster painting which hangs in the rotunda of the national capitol. Mr. Cannon is authority for the statement that Grant never touched Lee's sword.

"You are aware," says Mr. Cannon,

"that the federal government has never commemorated in monument or picture the fall of the confederacy. It never will. It has provided for the preservation of the most historic battlefields and there mingle the monuments to the heroes of both armies." Mr. Cannon believes that there is profound wisdom in the policy of not making monuments to the end of the war between the states.

Fruits of Federal Policy. "This policy has obliterated the scars of war more completely than any other policy could have done," Mr. Cannon believes, "for it has spread the industries once confined to New England to the south and west, and all through New England has multiplied her industries many, many times, she has now but a minor percentage of the great industrial output of this country."

The criticism and opposition to Grant came to a head when the liberal Republican party was organized with Horace Greeley, the famous New York editor, trying to disrupt the party of Lincoln and unseat Grant. The Democratic convention of 1872 was persuaded virtually to hide the identity of the party and swallow hook, line and sinker the platform of the new organization with Greeley at its head. The Democratic party officially was practically on record as supporting a radical protectionist—for Horace Greeley was that—in order to down General Grant. The platform of this curious coalition contained such terms as "treachery" and "usurpation" in describing the actions of General Grant. Mr. Cannon says that nearly every newspaper of any size and influence in the country was behind Greeley and against Grant. The trouble with the coalition, according to the veteran of scores of political battles, was that the Republican leaders, the Democrats and others opposed to Grant had little of a constructive nature on which any of them agreed, being united principally in their dislikes and antipathies. The fight resulted in Grant's election by the largest popular vote ever given a presidential candidate up to that time.

Circus Tent Stakes Driven by Power.

The automobile truck has largely superseded the horse as a means of transportation for the itinerant circus. It has also relegated the usefulness of the former sledge-swinging skill of the canvasman.

Now the stakes for the tents are not driven by hand, but by a truck built especially for that purpose. It carries the stakes and the tent poles and is equipped with a miniature pilot-driver of the modern automobile type, operated by a belt from the truck's engine. All the canvasmen have to do is to hold the stakes under the hammer of the driver until they are started into the ground.—Exchange.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK

Kingston, N. Y., April 27, 1922.

To the Members of the American Legion and to all Ex-Service Men:

Under the auspices of the Elks' Club of this city a campaign is about to be started for the raising of funds for the Salvation Army. Every ex-service man especially every Legioner should get behind this campaign and do what he can to bring it to a successful conclusion.

Not a man who went overseas, but had the opportunity to benefit by the work of the Salvation Army on the other side. These people carried their relief and welfare work right up to the front line trenches. You do not have to be reminded of the many comforts which they supplied to us during the war.

Here in our own community the Salvation Army has always filled a place peculiar to itself. There is no other organization which does exactly the work which the Salvation Army does.

The Elks are doing a very commendable thing in forwarding this campaign. Can the ex-service men who were benefited greatly by this organization during the war do less than citizens who were not in the military service? Give this campaign your moral support, give it your dollars.

PROLONG ARMY OFFICERS' LIVES

Surgeons Are Taking Steps Which Promise Good Results.

WILL LOOK FOR INFECTION

Surgeon General Ireland Recommends More Rigid Annual Physical Examinations—In View of the Results Already Achieved He Would Extend Examinations to Officers' Reserve—Insurance Officials and Statisticians Pledge Hearty Co-operation.

Army surgeons are hopeful that a "very appreciable prolongation of life" among regular army officers will result from steps now being taken as a result of the annual physical examination of the commissioned personnel. Under special instructions issued by Surgeon General Ireland, when the January physical examinations began, efforts are being made to locate "definitely any focal infections (abscessed teeth, diseased tonsils, infected sinuses, etc.) or other conditions which may be responsible for chronic degenerative changes."

"The removal of such underlying causes," General Ireland says in a memorandum to Major General Harbord, deputy chief of staff, "may result in return to a normal condition and very appreciable prolongation of life."

Stress Health Preservation. The memorandum points out that the annual examinations were undertaken fourteen years ago primarily with a view to eliminating those officers "found incapacitated," but that of recent years the value of the work toward "health preservation" had been stressed. As a part of this development, "a very thorough investigation of the medical records of all commissioned officers of the army" is in contemplation, with the object of detecting conceivable abnormal conditions which might have a bearing on life expectancy.

Determination of "the influence of the World War on physique" and also the effect of tropical service in the army on health will be a part of this study. Gen. Ireland adds, and "life expectancy tables for the commissioned personnel" can be prepared on the data obtained.

"Among the results to be anticipated," he continues, "from the practical use of the information so obtained, would be: An actual prolongation of life expectancy for officers of the army, correction of many physical defects with resulting increase in efficiency, and demonstration of the fact that the average age at death among officers of the army exceeds that in civil life, notwithstanding wars, accidents and service in the tropics." If the latter point be demonstrated it should result in placing army officers in a preferred class for life insurance with lower premium rates.

Insurance officials and statisticians have pledged hearty co-operation in the work outlined.

Physical Survey Work. General Ireland urges that extension of the physical survey work to the reserve officers corps and to the civilian military training camps personnel each year is an important function of the medical corps. It will lead, he says, to "promulgation throughout the nation of the principles concerned in disease prevention and health preservation." Discussing means of carrying the work on among civilians who turn out for military training he adds:

"In the case of those having correctable abnormalities the parents will be advised as to the nature of the defects and the steps necessary for their correction. From the viewpoint of disease prevention, vaccination against smallpox and the typhoid-paratyphoid fevers will be required and thereby popularized."

"When the organized reserves are more definitely developed," Gen. Ireland's memorandum concludes, "it is my opinion that it will be possible to institute a system of period physical examinations of the reserve commissioned personnel which will very materially influence and accelerate the development of life extension work in civil communities throughout the nation. When that is undertaken it should be stressed that the main purpose is to determine abnormal conditions which are responsible for incipient or advanced chronic degenerative changes, the correction of which will tend to prolong life."

GUN CLOSE TO BIBLE

Rev. Harry Andrews, negro minister of Rob Roy, Ark., was arrested the other day by Deputy Sheriff J. L. McBurnett on a charge of carrying a pistol and disturbing the peace.

It seems that the reverend gentleman for some time had not been getting along very well with some members of his flock, and recently had had a habit of decorating his pulpit with a "gun" as well as the Bible.

This action on the minister's part was caused by some of his recalcitrant members wanting him to leave the community.

MIDDLETOWN TEAM

Saturday afternoon promptly at 3:30 o'clock the Kingston High School representative line will play the Middletown High School line at the Athletic Field.

Mr. MacIntyre and Manager Carl H. Schmitt closed negotiations with the Colonial authorities to the effect that all of the home games of the high school line will be played as a preliminary to the Colonial matches. The admission to the sold under these conditions will be a standard price which will admit one to both games. It can be clearly seen that such arrangements will tend toward a feeling of camaraderie for both teams to both games. But each high school game will of necessity start at 3:30 so that the Colonial game will not be held up.

Since the High line has been practicing with the Colonial for the two weeks previous to last week's game splendid progress has been made by the young players; they have had the older men present to offer instruction and the completion of the veterans has undoubtedly played an important part; what is just as much Judge Schmitt has always been present to "rally" them unmercifully.

The young Hoffman second bag was doing splendid work until a new light appeared on the horizon in the shape of one Adolph Stumpf, a white "dark horse" who has been playing excellent ball. Stumpf, in bodily stature, is not a mile superior to Hoffman but he acts with a great deal more certainty when scooping a liner. Hoffman will not be dropped from the roster of the team but rather he will be retained and perhaps Saturday's game will show up some of the fielders—Hoffman's original position. Goetcheus will also be kept in mind for second spot until matters are settled.

The line-up, according to the batting order, will undoubtedly be: Stumpf, second base, Muller, third base, Bott, short-stop, Vogt, first base, Case, center field, Howard left field, McLane right field, Whiston, catcher, Caunitz, pitcher and captain, substitutes, Hoffman, Goetcheus, Scheffel and Colvin.
May 27, for the open date Williams High School of Stamford, Connecticut has been secured to play. Thus far this season the Williams boys have played in eleven games and have won 10. Hammering out a total of eighteen hits, the Williams team took the nine of the Oakdale High School of Peekskill, N. Y., off their pins and won by the decisive score of 15-1. The swiftest was led by Eddie Hunt, Stamford second baseman, who collected four hits out of five trips to the plate, two of them doubles. Three pitchers were used by the Peekskill boys. The Williams opened their season, much as the locals are going to do tomorrow afternoon, with a victory. The game was won over Franklin High of New Jersey, 18 to 9. The Williams boys may send all of the advance material forward that they wish about a crack base ball representation, but if they do not hike through any better than they did in basketball last month against the local Varsity the High School boys will surely win.

This evening the scheduled debate will be given in the High School auditorium beginning promptly at 8:15.

SATURDAY GAME ATHLETIC FIELD

New Diamond in Middletown Not Yet Ready for Colonials—Game postponed to Saturday—Sunday's Game Not Settled.

The second game of the baseball season here will be staged Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Athletic Field between the Colonials and the Schenectady K. of C., said to be one of the fastest teams in the capital district.

RAP AT MODERN PREACHERS

Bishop Denny Tells Good Story in Which Distinct Moral is Not Too Well Hidden.

Bishop Collins Denny said in an address in Richmond:

"I heard a story the other day that hits a good many preachers. It seems that the janitor of a fashionable church was showing his wife through the edifice. At the end of the inspection he said to her:

"Would you like to hear me preach?"

"Go on! You can't preach!" she objected.

"Can't I, though?" said the janitor, and he went up into the pulpit and read and roared and raged a good 20 minutes or more about the vile sins committed daily by the heathen in equatorial Africa.

"Then when he finished, he said, as he came down, wiping his hot face:

"There; now was that for a sermon?"

"It was mighty fine," said his wife.
"But you told all about the sins of the natives away off in Africa and never a word about the sins of the folks right here at home."

"The janitor chuckled.
"Ha! Ha!" he said. "I know the tricks of preachers! too well for that!"

SYNOD RECALLS PIONEER DAYS

Lutheran Church Body Formed
75 Years Ago by 12
Congregations.

STRUGGLES AND GROWTH

Missouri Synod Maintains Week Day
Parish School System of 1,310 Schools With 73,000 Children and 1,000 Teachers.

In the Spring of 1847, 23 pastors and a dozen lay delegates met in Chicago, then a town of 20,000 inhabitants, squinting on the frontier. That group organized the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states. Today, after 75 years of consistent adherence to the principles of conservative Lutheranism, "Missouri" Synod, as it has become familiarly known, numbers over a million souls, including 2,500 pastors with congregations all over the Union, in Canada, Brazil, Argentina and England.

The real beginning of Missouri antedated this historic event in Chicago.
The scene is laid in Dresden, the capital of Saxonia, where was located the parish of Pastor Martin Stephan, a staunch exponent of confessional Lutheranism, and an equally staunch opponent of the governmental Church Union of the Lutheran and Reformed denominations. His fearless stand for the Lutheranism of Luther had won the hearts of many like-minded men. It also brought him into serious conflict with the government, resulting in virtual persecution. In 1839 an emigration was decided upon as the only means of escape. In the Fall of 1838 this emigration was actually begun.

An Emigration Society was organized, a common treasury established and five ships for New Orleans were chartered. There had been some talk about settling in Australia, but America was finally chosen. At Bremen five sailing vessels received the Pilgrim party, numbering approximately 700 men, women and children. One of these ships, the Amalia, was lost at sea. The other four, after stormy passage, arrived at New Orleans during December, 1838, and January, 1839.
Proceeding up the Mississippi these weary pilgrims landed at St. Louis. A number of them remained there, but the major portion after but a few months, settled 112 miles south of St.
Louis, in Perry County, where they had purchased 4,440 acres of land.

Early Struggles

The first experience in their new home was to be one of bitter disillusionment, but withal, a blessing in disguise. In a strange land, confronted with the hardships and the difficulties of primeval forest and frontier life, Stephan, their near idolized leader, was exposed as a dishonest character, and remaining impotent in spite of remonstrance and admonition, was deposed and banished from the colony.
It was a time of intense struggle, both for physical maintenance and for spiritual stability, from which the settlers emerged all the more firmly grounded in faith.

Almost spontaneously, Pastor G.
F. W. Walther, one of the younger immigrant pastors, rose to leadership. His spiritual gifts, as well as his executive genius, were of commanding order, meeting every emergency as it arose. The German periodical, "Der Lutheraner," became the clarion of conservative and constructive Lutheranism, the instrument which rallied a host of Lutherans scattered over the states, and led to the founding of the Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states, at Chicago, in 1847.

Growth

"Missouri" has had a marvellous growth in the seventy-five years of its existence. It has grown in spite of evil prophecies of early destruction on account of its conservatism. And so, "Missouri" very naturally rejoices on the occasion of its seventy-fifth anniversary. It finds pleasure in its numerical strength. And yet, "Missouri" would be misunderstood, if numbers only were considered the cause of its joy. Zealous for the "salvation of man," "Missouri" has always stood for the "glory of God." In this light only is "Missouri" its work and growth, properly understood. And this, the consistent attitude both "for the glory of God" and "for the salvation of man." "Missouri" counts its chief cause for joy.

Present Status

"Missouri" at present is made up of 25 District Synods, representing, according to the statistics of 1920, over a million souls, more than three thousand congregations, and more than four thousand pulpits. It maintains the only formidable Protestant weekday parish school system, numbering 1,310 organized parish schools, attended by over 73,000 children, and taught by over 1,000 trained parish school teachers and 400 pastors. The Synod owns and controls 14 Colleges and Seminaries, with 91 professors, 26 assistants, and a total enrollment of 2,042 students. There are five privately owned high schools, with 42 teachers, and 667 enrolled students.
Home Mission work is carried on at 1,804 stations. Synod maintains also missions among the Jews, Indians, Foreign Tongue Immigrants, Deaf Mutes, and, very extensively, among the Negroes. Foreign Mission work is conducted in Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, China, East India, Alsace and through so called Free Churches in Germany, Australia, and New Zealand.

The Missouri Synod is represented in Kingston by the Livingston Street
Lutheran Church, of which the Rev.
F. T. Schroeder is the pastor and which has furnished The Freeman several interesting historical articles of which the above is the first.

SWIMMING CAMPAIGN

AT Y. M. C. A. POOL.

The physical department at the Y.
M. C. A. will conduct a swimming campaign for its members during the first three weeks of May.

The summer time, which is the big bathing and swimming season is not far off and now is the time for every non-swimmer in the association to take advantage of the opportunity to learn to swim, and thus prepare themselves against the many accidents which are liable to happen in or on the water.

The latest methods in teaching swimming will be employed by R. E.
Begg the physical director. It is expected that most of the non-swimmers will be able to master the art in the six lessons. Some have been able to learn swimming in one or two lessons.

Classes are now being formed which will receive instruction at times convenient to those desiring to take the lessons, and members are asked to leave their names at the office during the next few days.

FEAR OF TYPHUS BY MAIL

Post Office Official Seals Danger
Through Letters From Russia.
Superintendent of Foreign Mail Sands of the Post Office department said that the department entertained no fear that mail matter from Russia would spread typhus to the United States.

He made the statement in connection with recent reports that postal employees at Riga had expressed fears that mail leaving certain portions of Russia might possibly contain typhus germs, with consequent danger to postal recipients in other countries. If such danger existed, said Mr. Sands, the public health authorities in New York would take necessary precautionary measures.

Some years ago, when yellow fever was prevalent in South America, the Post Office department inaugurated a plan of puncturing notes in letters received from those countries and spraying contents, where possible, with an acid mixture, Mr. Sands explained.

This plan was said to have resulted in destruction of checks and other valuable correspondence, and was discontinued after a brief trial. There was little danger of infection even then, he added, although precautionary steps were thought necessary to allay fear.

So far as typhus germs being imported into this country was concerned, he said, the public should not be alarmed by reports reaching this country from abroad.

Now—and Then.

When a young man meets a girl and falls in love with her, he should avoid saying, as one used to say, "With you be mine?" It is more tactful in these days to whisper, "May I be yours?"
